

What is Aquamura?

Aquamura is a wall panelling system, made from WBP Birch plywood faced in a high-pressure decorative laminate. It is a simple, attractive and economical way to transform walls.

In a complete room installation, the tongued and grooved laminate-faced panels fit together quickly and effortlessly. The fixings are completely hidden.

Within a shower enclosure, full size boards clad each wall, minimising joints, for a hygienic solution, and no mouldy grout!

Technical information

Fitting standard panels

1. Aquamura panels have an attractive, tough laminate surface, and are constructed from quality water resistant plywood.

2. For best results with Aquamura panels, start in corner and finish over doorway.

3. Glue down edge of panel and fix into corner profile.

4. Screw down length of grooved panel. Use appropriate plugs for concrete, brick or plaster.

5. Apply sealant in joint before fitting next panel.

6. Slide the panel into place.

7. Cut last panel of each wall to size. Glue edge, fit profile and swing into place.

8. Mark position of final piece symmetrically over doorway. Cut panels and fix. Glue and screw where heads will be hidden by door moulding or coving.

Fixing shower panels

Shower panels should be trimmed to the correct height and width and then installed resting on the shower tray, embedded in silicon.

Panels can be glued back to wall battens or glued directly onto a suitable wall. Aluminium internal corner jointers and end caps are recommended, with sealant applied into the extrusion.

Accessories

Aluminium jointing sections are available in 2500mm lengths in a variety of finishes: S.A.A., polished aluminium, black, white, and polished gold effect.
